

About the Authors

RAFFY D. LABARRO earned his Bachelor's degree in Community Development from Tagoloan Community College in 2024. He is currently pursuing a Master's degree in Sustainable Development Studies, major in Community Development, at Mindanao State University–Iligan Institute of Technology (MSU-IIT). He is presently assigned at the UniFAST Office of Tagoloan Community College and also serves as a part-time instructor in the College of Arts and Sciences. Beyond his academic responsibilities, he actively engages in public service within the community. His professional interests include youth development, the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), and community organizing.

STEPHANIE B. LOMONGO earned her Bachelor's degree in Community Development from Tagoloan Community College in 2024. She is currently pursuing a Master's degree in Sustainable Development Studies, major in Community Development at MSU–IIT. She is connected with the City College of Cagayan de Oro as Partnership Acquisition Officer under the Linkages and Partnership Office. She previously taught under the National Service Training Program (NSTP), handling the Civic Welfare Training Service (CWTS). Her academic and professional interests include community-based research, civic engagement, and sustainable community initiatives.

CATHERINE Q. SABAYSABAY is the Program Head of the Bachelor of Arts in Sociology program under the College of Arts and Sciences, Tagoloan Community College. She earned her Master's degree in Sociology from MSU–IIT and is currently completing her Doctorate degree in Sociology at the same institution. Her research interests focus on social development, community dynamics, and sociological theory.

DIVINA B. CATALAN is a full-time faculty member at the College of Arts and Sciences, Tagoloan Community College. She earned her Bachelor's degree in Community Development from the Mindanao State University and completed her Master's degree in Educational Management. Her academic interests include community development, educational leadership, and participatory approaches to development.

DR. CHERYL ANN A. MATELA is a full-time faculty member at the College of Arts and Sciences, Tagoloan Community College. She previously served as College Dean and later as Officer-in-Charge (OIC) College President from 2022 to 2023. She holds a Doctor of Management degree and completed her Master's degree in Psychology in 2024. Her professional expertise includes institutional leadership, organizational management, and behavioral studies.

DR. CESAR Z. GAMBA currently serves as the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Tagoloan Community College. He holds a Doctor of Management degree and a Master's degree in Sociology. His professional interests include research development, institutional management, and sociological studies.

UMME ZARIN TASNIM is currently pursuing a master's degree in Social Work from the University of Rajshahi, Bangladesh. She has a keen interest in social research, particularly in issues related to vulnerable populations, gender equality, women empowerment, childhood trauma, psychological effects, and educational equity. Her recent research focuses on the educational equity and opportunities for the lagged behind disciplines.

PA NHIA XIONG, Ed.D., MSW is Assistant Professor and Graduate Coordinator in the Department of Social Work Education at California State University (CSU), Fresno. A first-generation Hmong college graduate, she holds a bachelor's, master's, and doctorate from CSU Fresno. Dr. Xiong is dedicated to empowering students from diverse backgrounds and supporting their higher education journeys. Her research focuses on social justice, human rights, and resilience, with an emphasis on Hmong secret war veterans and the Hmong queer community. She uses qualitative research to capture the unique stories and experiences of marginalized groups, particularly Hmong communities. With over 20 years of experience in education, social work, and public service, Dr. Xiong is passionate about equipping students with the tools needed to overcome adversity. Her work with Hmong and diverse youth in California's Central Valley drives her commitment to helping students achieve their educational goals and make meaningful contributions to their communities.

DR. KONDE LINGASWAMY is Assistant Professor at School of Social Work, Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU). He did his Bachelor degree from Nagarjuna Government Degree College Nalgonda, Osmania University and M.S.W. in Community Development specialization from Osmania University Post Graduate College Secunderabad, Osmania University, Hyderabad, Telangana. He holds a Ph.D. degree in Social Work from Osmania University, Hyderabad, and qualified UGC-NET in the year 2013.

BENJAMIN B. VELASCO is a student of the Doctor of Social Development program of the College of Social Work and Community Development (CSWCD) of the University of the Philippines (UP) Diliman. He is finishing his dissertation on improving the conditions of women garment workers through worker-driven social responsibility. He teaches at the School of Labor and Industrial Relations (SOLAIR), UP Diliman, and was formerly co-convenor of the Alternative Development Program of the UP Center for Integrative and Development Studies (CIDS). Before entering the academe, he was an educator, researcher, and writer for labor organizations.

ROSALINDA PINEDA-OFRENEO, Ph.D. is Professor Emeritus of the University of the Philippines. She continues to teach at the Doctor of Social Development Program of the UP CSWCD, which she also served as Dean from 2011 to 2013, and Chair of the Department of Women and Development Studies for three terms. She has several researches and publications, focusing lately on gender equality, social protection, solidarity economy, poverty, and sustainable development in the context of climate change. She has been active in the women's movement for almost five decades, working mainly with women in the informal economy organized by PATAMABA, Homenet Philippines, and Homenet Southeast Asia. She also writes poetry, for which she won several awards. Her recent work is titled ... Dahil ang Bukas Ay para sa Mapagkalinga, published by the University of the Philippines Press.

MICHAEL BJS. ABELLANA finished his Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy at Notre Dame University, Cotabato City where he graduated Magna Cum Laude. He also obtained his Master of Community Development degree from the CSWCD, UP Diliman. He was a seminarian of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate (OMI) from 2009 to 2014. He served as a Research Assistant at the Human Resource Development Office (HRDO) in UP Diliman, and Team Leader for Planning and Operations at the UP Centre International de Formation des Autorités (CIFAL) Philippines. He also worked as Agribusiness Development Specialist and Marketing Officer at the Integrated Rural Development Foundation, Inc. Currently, he is as a Senior Economic Development Specialist at the Department of Economic, Planning, and Development (DepDev, previously National Economic and Development Authority or NEDA) Regional Office XII, a position he has held since 2019.